Made in the Image of God

It doesn't take long for little children to discover that there are 1 differences between boys and girls. The 2 tell us that not only are we made in God's image, but God 3 created us male and female (see Genesis 1:27). As children grow, their 4 about each other leads to an awakening about their own sexual 5 and how they are supposed to relate to the 6 sex. Understanding our 7 relationships with others begins with understanding our own sexuality. God did not 8 for our sexuality to be separate from our hearts, our minds, and our spirits. We can't remove our sexuality from who we are, any more than we can 9 our brains from our bodies or our 10 from our minds.

This is why celebrating the Most Holy Trinity is not so much a theological exercise, but a revolution in our way of life. God, in whom each Person lives for the other in a continual relationship, in continual rapport, not for himself, provokes us to live with others and for others. Open. Today we can ask ourselves if our life reflects the God we believe in: do I, who profess faith in God the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, truly believe that I need others in order to live, I need to give myself to others, I need to serve others? Do I affirm this in words or do I affirm it with my life?

Dear brothers and sisters, and blessed Sunday!

Today is the Solemnity of the Holy Trinity, and in the Gospel of the celebration Jesus presents the other two divine Persons, the Father and the Holy Spirit. He says of the Spirit: "He will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things that are to come". And then, regarding the Father, he says: "All that the Father has is mine" (Jn 16:14-15). We notice that the Holy Spirit speaks, but not of himself: he announces Jesus and reveals the Father. And we also notice that the Father, who possesses everything
